Comment: I think there needs to be more negotiations on this. Especially on Caddo lake. It appears Louisiana just kind of rolled over and gave Texas what they wanted. I along with most fishermen in La. would much rather have seen a minimum size limit and neutral aggregate like the 5 fish limit for largemouth bass. Caddo is a very large natural lake that would be impossible to fish out since there are areas that probably have never even seen a boat. Take a moment and look on ultimatebass.com and you will see there is a substantial following and the general love of the outdoors and bass fishing, however it seems the rules and regulations just seem to change, fluctuate, or weight an enjoyable hobby down that it stops being a hobby and turns into work. Also remember, the gas is not getting cheaper so that is a major threat to the fishing community. Wouldn't you rather make fishing easier and more enjoyable to potentially keep anglers on the water. Fishermen are in general good sportsmen. Let them help in preserving this way of life, most keep only what they need or none at all and most would not even consider keeping a small fish so it can grow or a large fish because someone could enjoy catching a fish of a life time. Please remember the web site and remember fishermen are 100% of your customers. You wouldn't want to go down in the books with poor customer service. I know I wouldn't.
